

Is There Only One Story?

The answer is yes.

But it needs a little explaining.

There is the linear beginning of EVERY story where the State of Perfection is lost and the Capacities to regain it are not possessed. The process of gaining those Capacities and Returning to a State of Perfection is what a story is. In this sense, there is only one story.

The deeper question is whether there is only one process of gaining those Capacities and Returning to a State of Perfection and if so, what is it?

If you use logic, you come to the conclusion that there can be only one basic process but that the specifics can vary, within certain parameters.

For example, on the basic level - in order to acquire Capacities, the entity that will be Returning [the World(s)] to a State of Perfection must undergo a learning / training / growing process. What the specific learning / training / growing process is depends on what is being fought.

Certainly, Hollywood follows a distinct (almost rigid) process. And if you want to be a successful screenwriter and know how to turn novels and stories into screenplays, you had better learn it (we call it the 510+ stage Hero's Journey).

Kal Bashir,
510+ stage Hero's Journey
<http://www.clickok.co.uk/index4.html>